LEARNOVATE

Research & Innovation Services

Gain competitive advantage in the way you develop or deploy learning technologies

We offer strategic research and innovation services to companies that develop learning technology, and companies that acquire and use learning technology. Our expertise and experience encompasses a wide range of learning environments including corporate learning, higher-ed learning, school learning, and non-formal learning.

We provide bespoke research and innovation services to Irish and multinational companies who require the multidisciplinary expertise of our learning technology researchers and industry experts. Learnovate boasts a team of specialist researchers in learning sciences, computer science, user experience and user-interface design – as well as industry experts at the forefront of eLearning and EdTech innovation.

Learnovate can help you build your digital learning success story, whether you are:

- a new venture seeking funding support
- an expanding company in need of expert guidance
- a learning and development professional deploying learning technologies to internal customers
